SEIZED REBEL ARMS FOR HAYTIENS IN BROOKLYN STORAGE

Two Thousand Rifles, Great Quantity of Ammunition and $800,000 in Counterfeit Money Uncovered by Secret-Service Men.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Startling developments in the plot to overthrow the government of President Nord, of Hayti, have followed the investigations of the Secret Service agents in New York in connection with the arrest of Jose M. Giordani, on the charge of counterfeiting Haytian money.

The United States Secret Service announces that it has seized in Brooklyn $800,000 in counterfeit Haytian money, 2,000 rifles, 230,000 rounds of ammunition and correspondence of the revolutionary party. The officers say they have ascertained that the prisoner was the agent of a formidable conspiracy whose operations probably would have extended beyond the limits of Hayti into Santo Domingo and even into Cuba had the revolution in Hayti been a success and the agents in New York remained unimpeded. It was found among other things, the secret service operatives declare, that certain persons in Hayti, mostly Frenchmen and Corsicans, and one of them a brother of Giordani, were active agents of the alleged conspirators and were designated in the papers found among Giordani's effects by numbers.

Numbers Reveal Plotters. By careful inquiry the Secret Service men were able to connect these numbers with the proper persons, and the first result was to fix upon a person named Marc as one of the persons to whom a number had been applied. Upon learning this fact last evening, the State Department immediately cabled to American Minister at Port au Prince to dismiss this agent at once from the employ of the United States.

The action was taken because the State Department feels that it must keep itself absolutely free from any appearance of sympathy with rebellious movements in Latin-American republics. Chief Wilkie, of the United States Secret Service, made a statement to-day, giving the facts and circumstances connected with the arrest of Giordani which go to show that at the time of his arrest Giordani had in his possession counterfeit Haytian paper money to the face value of $800,000, two thousand Remington rifles, and 230,000 rounds of ammunition, all of which, it is said, was intended for the Haytian revolutionists.

Stored in Brooklyn. Six or seven months ago, when this government was advised by Provisional Governor Magoon that a small party of malcontents were trying to stir up a rebellion in Cuba, it was discovered that Giordani was connected with them. At that time it developed that he had represented Gen. Firman during the Haytian uprising in 1902. Firman then as now was the head of the revolutionary party. About that time Giordani came to New York, and ever since then the Secret Service officials have had him under close surveillance.

It was not long before it was discovered that Giordani had stored in a Brooklyn warehouse sixteen cases containing 2,000 Remington rifles in fine condition. Close watch was kept on these cases, and on Jan. 4, by Giordani's direction, they were loaded on a truck and hauled to the Hamburg American steamship pier, whence the steamer Graciosa was to sail on Jan. 6 for Haiti and other West Indian ports. The cases were marked "Structural Iron," and the fictitious name of C. Meriam & Co. was given as the consignee. Giordani, however, was given as the destination, but the shipper's name was withheld.

"Cement" Was Ammunition. There were subsequently added to the consignment twenty-three barrels marked "Cement." The officials had become convinced that Giordani was engaged in some unlawful enterprise, and the steamship company was notified not to receive the cases of "structural iron," the barrels of "cement," and some boxes which also had made their appearance, and upon learning of this action, Giordani had them hauled away to another warehouse. By that time the Secret Service had secured sufficient evidence to warrant them in opening all of the cases, boxes and barrels. The first contained the 2,000 Remington rifles, the barrels the ammunition and the boxes $800,000 in counterfeit Haytian currency. Giordani's

FLIRTED ON LINER, CHARGE DETAINS PRETTY VOYAGER

Richly Attired Young First Cabin Passenger Held at Ellis Island.

A beautiful young woman, richly attired and occupying a stateroom in the first cabin of the Hamburg-American steamship Moltke, was not permitted to land when the liner berthed to-day, because of several vivacious flirtations she is alleged to have participated in during the voyage. The captain of the Moltke had complained to an Immigration Inspector of these actions, and as the young woman had no address here and no husband waiting for her at the pier, she was taken to Ellis Island.

The detained voyager declared that she is Mrs. Amelia Boris, the wife of a New York man. Mr. Boris would meet her at the pier, she said, and there really was a man there waiting for her, but when Immigration Inspector Mooney got to him and asked him if he was the handsome young foreigner's husband, he replied in the negative.

Has Jewels and Money. The case is one of the most unusual ever handled by the Board of Inquiry at Ellis Island. The vivacious young woman was not only liberally supplied with fine raiment, rich furs and splendid jewelry, but carried, in a silver purse, twenty thousand francs in French currency. She boarded the Moltke at Naples, alone. She had no friends or acquaintances among the passengers—at first. But directly afterward, according to the officers' testimony before the Board of Inquiry, she became too popular with the unmarried men on the ship. The captain said to Miss Mooney, when she boarded the ship at Quarantine, that he had really been shocked by Miss Boris's flirtations.

Miss Mooney listened severely to the captain's story and then questioned the fair passenger. "Do you know where you are going when you reach New York?" asked the inspector. Mrs. Boris raised her eyebrows and then said, with a rippling laugh:

He Denied the Fair One. "I am going to fly to my husband's arms. He will meet me at the pier." She did not know her husband's address or any other address in this city. So Miss Mooney waited until the Moltke docked. A tall, well-dressed man was waiting at the foot of the gangway. "Ah! He is there!" cried the beautiful passenger, gathering her fur cloak about her and tripping forward. But the grim inspector brushed by her and ran to the side of the waiting man. "Are you that lady's husband?" she asked. The man shook his head. He was only a friend. He would not tell who he was, and when he saw there was going to be trouble about the landing of Mrs. Boris he waved her adieu and went away. She prayed to Miss Mooney to allow her to land, but the inspector was obdurate. The law must be obeyed, notwithstanding the beautiful garments and the 20,000 francs. The only ground on which Mrs. Boris can be deported is that she is not a proper person. The case has been postponed to give Mr. Boris an opportunity to call for his handsome wife.

POLICE CLUB ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED IN CHICAGO STAMPEDE

Many Marchers Beaten and Trampled in Wild Street Rushes, as Ranks of Men Who Try to Parade Are Broken.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Several sharp collisions occurred this afternoon between the police and the "army of unemployed" who attempted to parade through the streets to the City Hall, where they declared they intended to demand work.

Shortly before 2 o'clock about two hundred men formed in a column on the lake front and started to march. At State and Madison streets the paraders were met by Assistant Chief of Police Schuetzler, who ordered them to disperse. They refused and Schuetzler at once charged them with his force, breaking up the column and striking with clubs men who attempted to hold their ground. Several were knocked down, but not seriously injured.

The police made no attempt at arrests, but by free use of their clubs kept the men moving. A portion of the crowd turned south in State street and headed toward Jackson boulevard. They managed to get away from the police and formed another column, which was overtaken at Clark street and Jackson boulevard and again charged by the police. Several men were clubbed and the crowd was scattered.

Dr. B. L. Reisman, who led the second detachment, was arrested at Jackson boulevard and Clark street, after being somewhat roughly handled. His hat was smashed, his clothes were torn and his followers were scattered in all directions. The excitement attendant upon the fights at State and Madison streets and Jackson boulevard and Clark street attracted an enormous throng which made the work of the police exceedingly difficult.

When the crowd was broken up at the latter point many persons who were ignorant of the real cause of the disturbance were badly hustled about and some of them trampled upon. Immediately following the brushes with the crowd, Chief of Police Shuey called the reserves from the nearby stations into the business section, but the trouble was over before they arrived.

Reisman, when taken to Police Headquarters, said: "I was arrested without cause and treated brutally. Some policeman hit me over the head with his club. There would have been no trouble had the police allowed us to march to the City Hall, as we wanted."

The parade was planned last night, when criminals were sent broadcast calling on the unemployed of the city to gather on the lake front, parade to the City Hall and demand work.

LONG SHOTS GO THROUGH AT NEW ORLEANS

Belle the Cat, at 30 to 1, Big Upset in the Steeplechase.

(Special to The Evening World.) NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23.—There was a decided drop in the quality of the racing offered at City Park to-day. Following the stake and handicap features of yesterday the programme on this occasion seemed very cheap. It was good enough, however, when the conditions under which it was run were considered. The track was stiff and heavy with mud and it was a stout horse that was able to get through the mire to good advantage. The weather, however, was disagreeable, a chill wind blowing all day and driving the female occupants of the stand to the shelter in the rear overlooking the betting rack. The feature number was a steeplechase over the short course that attracted a batch of cheap cross country performers that never will be heard of in any classics through the field. The first race being split and the second half run as the third. The babies engaged were maidens, although most of them had started previously.
